COVER DESIGN FOR MUZZLE

Can prevent dirty particles entering bore which may cause gun to disable or be explosive. Especially in areas as outdoors, the desert where small stones or sand enter the bore easily, as well difficult to find & remove causing danger. The muzzle cap is the exact tool to prevent this from happening.

Circular Operating

Clean the bore with patches in solvent or anti-rust oil
Multi-functional Orange rope

- » Rope can be put on/put off the brush by screw lock
- » Rope can be left inside the bore after cleaning
- » Clamshell and card-packaging

We do not recommend to use this for pistols/handguns and some rifles with small chamber entrance (L is less than 1/4 inch *see picture below) as the brush is 3.35 inch/85mm long

We have another short one (brush length is .177/4.5mm) 6385 which suits small chamber entrance.

Direction for users

Take off the orange rope from the brush part; put cleaning patches on hook and drop solvent or oil as picture showing.

Feed and drop the brass pendant with string from chamber to muzzle. And pull out the brush from the muzzle. Repeat 2-3 times.

Put the orange rope in the hook. Screw down to lock the orange rope inside the hook.

Feed and drop the brass pendant with string from chamber to muzzle, then connect the 2 string's ends by screwing on.

Leave the orange rope inside the bore like the picture showing. Take off the brush part from the orange rope.

Pull the kit from the muzzle continuously till you think the bore is clean enough.

- 1 Clean the bore
- 2 Anti-rust by leaving it inside the bore after cleaning (it can expel air, absorb moisture)
- 3 Safety guard (bore is full of rope, polyester fiber material rope, not corrosion)
- 4 Orange color ends outside the barrel can remind people the firearm is after cleaning
